I find it ridiculous that this bill would even be considered. It is obvious that this has just been brought by a group that is losing their hold on their market through their own stupidity. They have treated us like crap forever, here in San Diego, Clear Channel owns more radio stations they are even legal, because they broadcast from Mexico. And they are all the same, corporate artists stuffed with loads of ads and dumb deejays. They have abused their listeners for years, and now that we figured out a way to break their oppressive rule, they're mad. I have a choice and I will be damned if the government is going to take it away.
